troduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. A chill December evening, with the rain and snow forming a disagreeable sort of conglomeration on the sidewalks, the gas-lamps at the corners flickering sullenly through the mist, and the wind taking one viciously, as one came round the corner! Not a pleasant evening to assume possession of a new home, but necessity knows no law, and Mr. Bark dale put up his nightkey into the red brick house in the middle of the block, sincerely hoping that his new landlady would have the common sense to light a

SAnd after thirty years' trial, the "PAIN-KILLER" may justly be styled the great med-cine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not been largely and highly prized. Moreover, there is no climate to which it has not proved itself to be well adapted for in Sonora, and hundreds of the poor are the cure of considerable variety of diseases; it is admirable suited for every race. It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every medicine chest; and is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues, from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the first respectability reend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruises. Cuts, Burns, &c., but for Dysentery or Cholera, or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpass for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India and other hot climates, i has become the Standard Medicine for all such omplaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver

Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine. No article ever attained from the country since march has delayed the act, which is but carrying out his and internal medicine, the Pain-Killer stands unrivalled.

Thirty Years are certainly a long enough time to prove the efficiency of any medicine, and that the PAIN-KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is anaply proved by the unparalelled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and expective remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and is becoming more popular every year. see a little of the streets and people as we had little time, and that in the evening. If the streets we saw were specimens, one would need to be well acquainted to go about much. The pavement was of large cobble stone, roughly laid. and sloping from the middle. The streets were narrow, so that in many places a carriage could not pass. We saw one good carriagein the French part of the city, (there are also the Greek quarter, and the Turkish quarter.)-Many of the shops in the French quarter were quite neatand pretty. Others were much less so. Often the street was covered, and in the evening entirely dark, unless lighted with lanters, as some of them were. Gas is used for lighting part of the city. We drank a cup of Turkish coffee at one of the out-of-doortables in front of a coffee house, at an expense of <sup>1</sup> piastre per cup, (a piastre is equal to about 5 cents.) Many of the people were there drinking coffee, and smoking narguileh. Their musicians were playing apparently at the expense of the house. Their music, harp and a flute, was very good. He entered the University at the beginning of the present collegiate year as freshman in class of '77, and was pursuing the course in Mechanic Arts, in order to fit himself for that department of the law relating to patents. He had already graduated at the Columbian Law School in Washington and though but 17 years of age, had attained a high degree of scholarship and was considered a student of remarkably bright intellect and one of the most promising members of the Freshman Class.

There are in nearly all colleges in this country what are known as College Secret Fraternities, similar in character to the order of Masons, Odd Fellows, &c. yet admitting only regularly matriculated college students. They are founded for the purpose of promoting social relations, encouraging scholarship and forming ties of friendship and brotherhood which exce men sitting in a court on the roof of lege career. They have nothing objectionable in their character, save they are ist long after the completion of one's colselect and secret. They are held in much esteem by college students, and the privilege of becoming a member of any one of them is coveted by the under-graduates.

Leggett was about to join one of the fraternities, (the Kappa Alpha,) when he met his death. On Friday night last, the members of the Kappa Alpha, together with Leggett, went to a place a purpose of going through some preliminaries to the initiation which takes place in the fraternity's hall.

What those preliminaries were is not known save by the order themselves. though there was nothing unusual in the initiation and nothing of a nature to produce any bodily harm whatever. These are simply theories as I have no real knowledge of the matter, not being a a member of the same fraternity.

Yet whatever they were, the candidate and the two nearest to him slipped and fell over a precipice 34 feet in height striking upon rocks below. All three were entirely unconscious after the accident, and Leggett remained in that state until his death, which occurred about an hour after.

He struck on his head and injured his spinal cord; the other two struck in such a way that their injuries will probably not prove fatal. All that can be said about this sad affair is that the death of Leggett was accidental and one of those occurrences which happen when the greatest seeming human foresight is used; it with a glass, I saw a threshing floor, two was one that is always gone through with dreds of times by the fraternity in initia

Mr. Edick has since resigned his office, for the reason that he thought it inexpedient for a United States officer to hold any state office, however small, and the trustee has appointed W. Geo. Baxter in his place. A committee was appointed by the meeting, consisting of Hon. Harvey Palmer, Dr. D. J. Green, Rev. A. P. Phinney, C. H. Ford and A. Rulison, for the purpose of selecting a site for a school house, and to ascertain upon what terms the site may be obtained, and report at an adjourned meeting to be held four weeks from that evening. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Marwin Avery, the former trustee.

An adjourned temperance meeting was held at the church last Wednesday evening. A town temperance society was formed, and a constitution and by-laws were adopted and officers elected. The officers of the society are to be elected quarterly. The following were elected officers: President, Hon. Harvey Palmer; Vice Presidents, J. S. Codner, Miss Emma Avery; Secretary, Miss Helen Rider; Treasurer, R. W. Slayton. The officers of the society are a vigilance committee. A committee of five was appointed to circulate a total abstinence pledge. It is not necessary to be a total abstinence person to be a member of this society, but to be in harmony with the objects set forth in the constitution, viz: To enforce the laws and to repress intemperance. The meetings of the society are to be held on the first Wednesday evening of each month, unless otherwise provided.

The Annals for October is out. Mr. Syle finishes his paper entitled "A summary of the Recorded Researches and Opinions of H. P. Peet, Ph.D., LL. D." Like it spredecessor it is exceedingly well written, and a copy of the July and October Annals containing it, would be an invaluable addition to the library of any instructor of the deaf, or of any educated mute. The following note at its close may interest our readers.

"A very touching incident occurred when Dr. Peet's remains were carried home. Just before the casket was finally closed, a crown of laurel, made by the hand of one of his most gifted and be loved pupils, Miss M—, was placed upon his head; and with this last exquisitely poetic tribute, the venerated face was veiled from sight."

Mr. Philips, of Ontario, has an article on the "Elements of Human Speech," in which he places himself averse to Mr. Bell's system of "Visible Speech" as a means of communicating articulation to deaf-mutes, and he takes Mr. Bell to task for putting the cart before the horse. Mr. Syle has an article on "Societies and Periodicals for the Deaf" which contains many good points.

But perhaps the most attractive article of all is one, anonymous, on the "Perversity of Deaf-Mutism" by "An Extremist, Nowhere," or "A Disgusted Pedagogue." The article commends itself and is first-rate because it is too true. #### Don't Box Children's Ears.

Some of our scientific men are applying science to the protection of children against inconsiderate punishment. They unqualifiedly condemn the boxing of children's ears. The passage of the ear is closed on its inner side by a thin membrane, especially adapted to be influenced by every impulse of the air, and with nothing but the air to support it internally. Any sudden or forcible compression of the air in front of this membrane is likely to injure it. Such a shock is almost sure to distend the membrane unnaturally, and sometimes it breaks it. especially when from previous disease the membrane has been weakened. Besides, such a shock always injures the nerve of home. But at the end of the dock he

Many a child, it seems, has been made deaf by having its ears boxed, and others from the same cause have been afflicted for years, and sometimes for life, with painful diseases of the auditory organs. So the verdict of science is, don't box children's ears.

Thomas Brown.

The following letter from Thomas Brown which came too late for our last week's issue will be read with pleasure, inasmuch as it shows that Mr. Brown's injuries are less severe than was at first supposed. We are very glad to learn that none of his bones were fractured, and although his bruises are very painful, he is rapidly recovering.

WEST HENNIKER, N. H.

Oct. 10, 1873, 4 P. M. DEAR RIDER :- I can now sit up on this bed a little while to drop a line in response to the card Mrs. Brown received from you last evening. The report in most public prints is not correct. Please say in your journal that no bone is broken nor is there any inward injury, but my back is badly bruised and I received a few cuts on the head. The doctor says there is no bad symptom about my body. Though the bruised back is painful, I am as comfortable as could be expected. I don't know why I should not have been as cautious as I had been before. What a miraculously narrow escape from such a dreadful accident! A mysterious, Divine mercy! There was no man standing on the track with a red flag. The place is narrow and dangerous.

On Monday morning, the 6th inst. as usual I rode down for the mail, thinking the cars had passed in time. I went along side of the track when the engine suddenly rubbed off two wheels of the wagon and broke them into atoms; at this instant I was saved by my favorite. mare jumping from the track. When I was taken out of the atomed wheels, I saw my mare standing still before me seemingly to see her master whether he was killed or not. To day I have begun to move myself and walk a little about swered by him. His post office address

I do hope that the Clerc matter is not affected but goes smoothly and under Divine mercy I hope to get out of the bruises and attend to the Clerc business. May God hasten it. Your faithful friend,

THOMAS BROWN.

Kouponetisms.

A missionary recently returned from Bombay, India, tells us some queer stories of the beliefs of the natives there. They believe in the transmigration of souls. Whenever they see a deaf-mute, they think that he is somebody who lived long ago among them, but in punishment for some sin, was ordained to be born again and live out his natural life with a curse on him. They think the same of the blind, the halt and the deformed. And moreover they will hardly tolerate the presence of such a person among them, and are known to practice all sorts of cruelties on him. The lot of a deaf-mute there must be doubly hard, and with the Contributions and Editorial Correspondence to be sent, at the option of the writer, either to the above, or to F. L. Fishes, according to Seth Green are mutes, and the stories of their going into raptures over music and other harmonious sounds, are all moonshine.

The lot of the newly arrived pupil, of an institution for the deaf is a peculiar one. Most of us know pretty much how it is ourselves. One, lately arrived at a B. He can be seen frequenting the main hall of the building at all times of the day, and every one he meets is duly asked in pantomime, but too natural, when his pa and ma are coming for him. While on our route home from the Rochester Convention, we had a laugh tographer, and a mill-owner, and is at over the following little incident. The car was pretty full of deaf-mutes, ladies and gentlemen, and when the conductor had got over his stare, he began to collect the tickets- One young lady handed him hers, which he took, punched, glanced at, and immediately handed back with a growl. Mr. J. W. Conklin, of the New York Institute, as many of our readers are aware, is a great fisherman. And he is a lucky fisherman also. The first man couldn't believe his eyes, the second gazed wonderingly, but the third found his voice and shouted the news along the line. As everybody would look, Mr. C. set down his basket, and silently in single file, they walked past the dock. The last man, with common sense, which we cannot sufficiently commend, stopped and taking out a pencil and paper, toid Mr. C. that he had caught more fish in the afternoon than the whole party had during the day. Happy Mr. C. ! He walked home satisfied with himself and with all mankind.

This society has been in existence for upwards of seven years, and its work, though done silently, and almost unperceived, has been of great benefit to those of the mute community that are its members. Its aid is of that substantial kind which is summed up in dollars and cents, the benefits received by individual members foot up to many hundreds of dollars. Its roll of membership includes many of the most energetic and well known mutes in the land; it has representatives in almost every state in the Union, and whereever its name is known, it is respected and honored. Its constitution has lately undergone a full revision, and will soon be reprinted and ready for distribution to all those who may wish for a copy. The benefits and privileges of the society are open to every gentleman deafmute who may possess those qualities necessary to a successful application.-All kinds of information respecting the organization can be had by addressing the Grand Secretary, and all questions will be cheerfully and promptly an-

A "Deaf-and-Dumb" Man.

Doubtless most of our readers have at different times encountered a dirty-looking individual who has presented to them a card, stating that the bearer was deaf and dumb, and signed by some one who vouched that he was without means of support and had a large family depending upon him for daily bread, etc, etc. While some dropped a few pennies in his hand and gave him looks of sympathy, others regarded him with suspicion and hesitated not to pronounce him a fraud. The subject of our sketch is one Daniel Connelly, aged fifty years, an Irishman by birth, and with no occupation. He fought in the late war and afterwards that that was the ticket that he had gone into the conductor's pocket.

In large quantities it is an active poison affecting the brain directly. Its distinguishing feature is that like arsenic or opium, it creates an increasing desire for itself till such quantities are taken as to affect both mind and body, and eventually destroy them. Alcohol affects different persons differently, according to their temperament. Some it affects in such a manner that they are overcome by it at once. Others But there are no persons who do not act differently under its influence from what they would otherwise.

Strong drink is a deceiver. No man under its influence even to the smallest degree, is the same man that he is at other times. It affects the imagination to such a degree as to give a different phase to everything in life. It was a favorite remark of my lamented father, who detested deception in all its forms, that he could place no value upon anything spoken or written by a man under the influence of stimulants. Strong drink in its further effects destroys caution, conscience, energy, patience, ambition, self-respect. It leads to crime. poverty, disease, death. It produces false courage, false feelings, false estimates. It is the first step that is the most dangerous, therefore avoid it forever. If any of you are thus far unfamiliar with it, determine that you will ever be. If you have occasionally indulged in its use, stop where you are. If you feel the appetite already-irresistible, understand that the most determined resolution must be called to your aid. At all times let your influence be felt as discountenancing its use. Let woman especially use her great influence against this great social danger.

Let deaf-mutes, who, by reason of the peculiar notice which is taken of them. have it in their power to influence their fellow men by their good character, set their faces against it, and let it be known especially that this vice which is dragging thousands to destruction, is one which they have learned to avoid.
